(XIIIth Year.) THE (No. 2148.)

MARYLAND GAZETTE

THURSDAY, MARCH 13, 1788.

VIENNA, December 1.

"The last letters from Constantinople leave us in the most uncertain suspence. The French ambassador have frequent conferences with the Reis Effendi; and they add, they are in hopes of finding means of reconciling the court of Petersburg with the Porte.

COLOGNE, December 3.

The magistrate of this place has permitted the Protestants to erect a place of worship, and build schools adjoining it, and a mansion house for their minister. Several families have lately arrived from England to settle here.

PARIS, December 8.

The ambassadors of Tippoo Saib, who came with presents for our court, are expected at Brest. They are to be received in that port with all the honours due to monarchs. Their apartments are to be the most magnificent. Lodgings are appointed for them on the road from Brest to Paris, where it is thought they will arrive this month.

HAGUE, December 14.

Letters from Petersburg received here, bearing date the 20th of November, inform us, that news had been received from prince Potemkin, of a victory and defeat of the Turkish forces.

LONDON, December 6.

Extract of a letter from Warsaw, November 14.

"A courier arrived here from Cherson has brought intelligence, that on the 5th day of this month they heard a very heavy firing of artillery, which was supposed to come from Oczakow. The reports of the taking of Kinburn by the Turks is not confirmed; however, the report was not absolutely without foundation, if it be true, as we are this day assured, that one of the outer works of the place had already been carried by the enemy when the Russian fleet arrived just in time to succour it, and repulse the assailants with considerable loss; after which they went and bombarded Oczakow, and threw shells to several houses. It is also said, that general Suwarow is certainly dead. However it may be, Kinburn is not taken, and prince Potemkin is arrived here from Cherson, in order to put it in a state of defence, to repulse any fresh attacks the enemy may undertake against it; after which that noble prince will return to his head quarters at Elizabeth-grad. General Sekeli, who commands a body of troops on the side of Georgia, has made an incursion into the habitations of the Caucasus, where in an action with the Tartars, 4000 of them were left dead on the field of battle. On the other side, the Turks have possessed themselves of the isle of Tanton, which is in dependence on the Crimea; but the accounts we receive of these countries, are so vague and uncertain, that there is no dependence to be placed on them.

"The field marshal count Romanzow, who has established his head quarters at Derazanni, an estate belonging Mr. Tepper, of Warsaw, has concluded with the count Potocki, palatine of Russia, and commander in chief of the Polish troops in the Ukraine, a convention, by virtue of which they are to retire from the frontiers further into Poland, in order that the Russian army may not meet with any obstacle in its passage through the territory of the republic to attack the Turks, who are assembled in great force in Moldavia."

Prince of Orange's firmness of right intentions.—The prince of Orange refuses to discourage as much as it is in his power, the disorder and ravages produced by the unprecedented oppressions of the patriotic party, has lately given an instance of his determined love of justice, by ordering a regiment in his service that had been guilty of pillaging the inhabitants of Bois le Duc, to march from thence to Maestricht, under the pretence of doing garrison duty. On their arrival they were ordered to the parade, and to lay down their arms. After which they were stript to their shirts, narrowly searched, officers and men, on whom, it is said, that jewels, gold and specie, have been found to the amount of three hundred thousand florins, part of which was even concealed in their hair; but the wealth of the officers, it is said, will be confiscated. Several of the men are under confinement, and it is not doubted but they will be made a severe example of.

"The treaty of alliance between England, Holland and Prussia, is in great forwardness, on which subject Sir James Harris has lately held frequent conferences with the states general, and from those abilities there is little doubt but its conclusion will be equally to the honour and advantage of this country.

They write from Brest, that the frigate having on board the ambassadors from Tippoo Saib is daily expected, and that although they are disarming the ships, the utmost exertions are going forward in completing those on the stocks.

Extract of a letter from Amsterdam, December 18.

"Since the arrival of the letters from England, dated the 14th instant, stocks have fallen here four per cent. The connexion now forming with the Bourbon interest, the emperor and Russia, seems to gratify the desires of the deluded patriots greatly: they call loudly for revenge against England and Prussia for their interference in the disputes of the republic.

"The magistracy has forbid, in all the charity schools in this city, the use of a book, entitled, "English Tyranny," which the patriotic party had lately brought into common use here."

Tax. Dr. Inglis, now bishop of Canada, hath actually put in his claim for the £. 200 left by the benevolent Martin Benson, to the first bishop that should be sent to, and settled in North-America.

Extract of a letter from Paris, December 24.

"A second Joan d'Arc (the maid of Orleans) has made her appearance in Asia. She went to Choczim at the head of 14,000 men, and was received with public demonstrations of joy. The exalted minds of the Mahometans may soon be persuaded, that this mighty virgin is sent from Heaven by their holy prophet.

PACKETS,

The arrangement for the packets is as follows:—Instead of vessels of 200 tuns burthen, it is the intention of the post-office to employ vessels of 100 tuns only, to be built for swift sailing in preference to capacity.

Ten packets are to be destined for the West-Indies, to sail from Falmouth every fortnight. They drop their first mail at Barbadoes, and then sail immediately to Crooked Island, where they deliver and receive the Jamaica mail, &c.

Four packets are to be stationed in the West-Indies to convey the letters from Admiral Cornwallis, and also to and from the Carolinas, and meet the packet at Crooked Island and Barbadoes.

Four packets are destined for America, to sail once a month; and six to Lisbon, to sail as usual.

The saving on this improved plan will be about 20,000l. a year.

NEW-YORK, March 3.

On account of the severity of the weather, the route of his Britannic majesty's packet is altered; and she will proceed on Thursday next (wind and weather permitting) directly for Falmouth, without touching at Halifax.

By a letter from a gentleman at Boston, of the 23d of February, who waited two days at Exeter, in New-Hampshire, to know the decision of the convention, we are informed that it adjourned to June, that the adjournment was a measure of the friends to the constitution, the anti-constitutionalists being 70 to 40, that if the adjournment had not been moved, the constitution would have been instantly rejected, and that there was little hopes it would have a greater number of friends in June than it now has. The aristocratics are quite in the dumps, and are satisfied the plan cannot take without satisfactory amendments.

Extract of a letter from Boston, February 24.

"The convention of New-Hampshire have adjourned to June next. This measure was proposed by the federalists, rather than to attempt to adopt the constitution by a small majority. Upwards of forty towns have absurdly fettered their delegates with instructions against the constitution. It is expected, upon more mature consideration, that those instructions will be repealed, and the delegates suffered to act agreeable to their own judgments. In this case, there cannot be a doubt but the convention will in their next session adopt a constitution so replete with benefits to New-Hampshire, as well as the union in general."

PHILADELPHIA, March 1.

Extract of a letter from St. George's (Grenada) November 3.

"Tuesday last the brig Aurora, captain Richard Gardiner, arrived here from Norfolk in Virginia:—On the passage three of the crew, headed by a foreigner named Johnson, attempted to make themselves master of the vessel, but were happily prevented by the vigilance and spirit of the captain and mate; the former of whom was under the necessity of firing at, and mortally wounded the ring-leader, who was armed with a long knife in each hand and attempted to stab him.—The other mutineers seeing their chief disabled, submitted, and on their arrival here, were committed to gaol."

RICHMOND, February 7.

From the GLASGOW ADVERTISER, October 15. 1787.

SINGULAR ANTIPATHY.

Aurophobia.

The following very extraordinary circumstance exhibits, perhaps, the first instance of the kind hitherto known, and is well attested by respectable persons in the neighbourhood.

John Poole, a boy about fifteen years of age, son of a farmer residing near Clare, in Suffolk, some years ago discovered a strong antipathy to the sight of money; no one could ever get him to accept any. The boy being of a very bashful and timid nature, of course this constant refusal was at first imputed to his shyness. His father attempted to induce him to take some money, and in various ways, without any success: Though perfectly sensible he could purchase with it different articles that he wanted of, his refusal and seeming abhorrence of money continued the same. An experiment was then made to try whether this refusal did not proceed, as was supposed, from bashfulness, and an idea that he ought not to take money when offered to him. His father put some half-pence into his pocket, unknown to him. On putting his hand in his pocket, he felt them, and drawing it back with much seeming horror, he fell into strong convulsion fits, in which he continued an hour. Some time after this, his father, still wishing to overcome the antipathy, resolved to try the same experiment with some silver. The same symptoms were again exhibited, only with an increasing degree of violence, indeed such violence that his father expected he would have died. Of the existence of this strong antipathy his father is now so convinced, that he will not suffer any further experiments; and as many persons, witnesses to the last trial, all seem to agree, that the repetition in all probability would be dangerous. Nothing that is recollected of the boy can lead to account for this strange aversion. In every other respect he is as other boys are, except being of a grave, thoughtful turn. In many things he is very acute. The father naturally feels concerned, on reflecting that in the progress of time his son must be engaged in business, and of course in money transactions. The abhorrence still continues so strong, that he now turns away when any money comes within his sight.

BALTIMORE, March 7.

Late London news-papers, received by the last British packet, advise, That the greatest exertions were making throughout the Ottoman empire, to enable them to cope with the powerful combination of the imperial courts; and that such exertions were highly necessary to preserve their dominions in Europe, if the reports are true, that the empress of Russia and the emperor of Germany have mutually agreed to send, at least, 150,000 men each, to attempt their overthrow—That it seems, that the Turks have determined by one stroke to regain their lost territories, or to be for ever driven from Europe—That the protestant Swiss cantons had agreed to enter into the German league—That the French government were turning their eyes towards reformation in every department—That it was expected the count Welderen, who was ambassador to the British court so many years before the breaking out of the war in 1780, would be appointed plenipotentiary by the states general of the United Netherlands to the court of Great-Britain—That universal peace and tranquillity was far from being established in the United Provinces; that the malcontents in Rotterdam were frequently assembling in riotous tumults, and committing the most daring outrages on the lives and property of peaceable inhabitants—that their noble mightinesses of Holland and West-Friesland had renewed their publication of the 4th of October last, forbidding, under the severest penalties, the frequent outrages, and the unlawful assembling of the people—in consequence of this resolution, there was published at the Hague, on the 10th of December, a placart for the preventing of riots, with severe penalties against the offenders—That more than 2000 houses had been pillaged at Bois le Duc, and the damage had been estimated at not less than four millions of florins—That the French, from motives of policy and humanity, had given an asylum in France to the unfortunate Dutch patriots, who had been treated with great liberality and urbanity in various parts of that kingdom.

By virtue of a writ of venditioni exponas to me directed, will be sold, on Tuesday the 22d of April, at 4 o'clock, P. M. on the premises,

PART of a lot of ground on the city of Annapolis, with the improvements thereon, lying in Prince-George's-street, adjoining Dr. James Murray's, taken in execution as the property of Thomas Rutland, and to be sold to satisfy a debt due to James Little.

JOHN ADDISON.

VENETIAN,

WILL stand for mares this season, at Mrs. Dinney's plantation near South-river church, at three guineas each mare, and a dollar to the groom.

VENETIAN is a fine bay, fifteen hands one inch high, with length and bone in proportion. He was bred by Sir James Pennyman, bart. of Yorkshire, and got by Doge, his dam by Jennison shaftoe Snap, sire to Goldfinder, Gnawpost, Daley and other good runners, his grand-dam by old Fox. Doge was bred by captain Wentworth, and got by Regulus, son of the Godolphin Arabian, his dam by Crab, his grand-dam by Dyer's Dimple, which was got by Leed's Arabian, his dam by old Shanker, a son of the Darcy Yellow Turk, out of a daughter of Dodsworth Leed's Arabian, was the sire of Leed's, also Basto, Old Fox, and the grand-dam of Childers. It is unnecessary to gasconate any thing in favour of the figure of this horse or performance, every gentleman that has seen him, thinks him the handsomest ever imported into this state. He covers two guineas fower than he ought, owing to the scarcity of cash. Grass for mares at half a dollar per week, but will not be answerable for escapes or accidents; no mares will be served, without the money is sent with them.

JOHN CRAGGS.

March 10, 1788.

Annapolis, February 25, 1788.

THE subscriber having empowered Richard Sprigg, jun. to receive the debts and settle the accounts of the late Doctor John Sprigg, all persons indebted are requested to make speedy payment to him, at Mrs. F. Bryce's, Annapolis; it will be rendered convenient to those residing in Prince-George's county, by his attending at Upper-Marlborough, at the April court next.

RICHARD SPRIGG, administrator.

Mount Vernon, March 21, 1788.

ROYAL GIFT,

and the KNIGHT of MALTA,

Two valuable imported jack-asses,

WILL cover mares and jennies at Mount Vernon the ensuing spring, for (on account of the scarcity of cash) three guineas the season, and two shillings and six-pence to the groom, for his care of them.

The first is of the most valuable race in the kingdom of Spain—the other is of the best breed in the Island of Malta.

ROYAL GIFT (now 6 years old) has increased in the first he covered, last season, and now stands and hardly a mare to which he went, miscarried.

The KNIGHT of MALTA will be four years old this spring, about fourteen hands high, most beautifully formed for an ass, and extremely light, active and sprightly; comparatively speaking fit for the fine courser.

These two jacks seem as if designed for different purposes, but equally valuable; the first by his weight and great strength, to get mules for slow and heavy draught; the other, by his activity and spirit, fitted for quicker movements. The value of mules on account of their longevity, strength, hardiness and cheap keeping, is too well known to need description.

MAGNOLIO,

STANDS at the same place for two guineas the season, and two shillings and six-pence to the groom. The money, in both cases, to be paid before the mares or mares are taken away, as no accounts will be kept.

Good pasture, well enclosed, will be provided at half a dollar per week, for the convenience of those who incline to leave their mares or jennies; and every reasonable care will be taken of them, but they will not be ensured against thefts, escapes, or accidents.

JOHN FAIRFAX, Overseer.

Prince-George's county, March 9, 1788.

The imported Horse

ECLIPSE,

STANDS this season at Collington Meadows, and will cover at two guineas and a half cash, and seven shillings and six-pence to the groom. The gentlemen who have had mares to Eclipse, may have them covered (on their own accounts) for two guineas and five shillings to the groom. Eclipse will cover for 5 shillings cheaper than any imported horse, that is equal to him. He is in high order and health; his pedigree may be seen where he stands.

THOMAS HARRISON, groom.

GODOLPHIN,

A high bred five years old HORSE,

STANDS at the same place, and will cover mares at the low rate of one guinea cash, and five shillings to the groom, he is a fine bay, nearly fifteen hands high, he is bred from the best mares and horses that have been imported. Pasturage three shillings and six-pence per week.

THOMAS HARRISON, groom.

N. B. Either or both of these horses are for sale.

Port-Tobacco, November 2, 1787.

TWENTY DOLLARS REWARD.

RAN away a few weeks ago, a negro man named BOB, about six feet high, a dark mulatto, trade a blacksmith, and is also a rough carpenter; his cloaths are unknown, as he took with him a variety; when he speaks it is in a loud voice and very quick; he has a scar in the palm of his right hand. He has in his possession a written permission, signed by William Pye, his former master, to hire himself where he chose, and with this and a forged pass it is likely he will endeavour to make his escape; he was seen at Annapolis during the last races, and went towards Baltimore. Whoever will secure the said negro Bob, so that we get him again, shall receive the above reward, on application to major John Swan of Baltimore, Robert Couden, Esq; of Annapolis, or the subscriber

J. H. STONE, and Co.

N. B. All masters of vessels are warned not to take him on board their vessels.

14

TAKEN up as a stray, by Henry Hawkins, near the brick church, Prince-George's county, a small black MARE, about thirteen hands high, 7 years old, with a white face and three white legs, has been docked or branded, has never been rode. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges, and take her away.

3X

Newport, Charles county, January 23, 1788.

To be RENTED, or LEASED,

THE store houses belonging to the subscriber, situated as above, and within a small distance of a capital tobacco warehouse; this stand is adapted either for a day or wet store, or both; the houses will be under rent until the first day of April next, but believe immediate possession may be easily obtained. Count de MONTMORIN.

To the United States of North-America.

After which he addreſſed congreſs in a ſpeech, of which the following is a tranſlation:

Gentlemen of the Congreſs,

THE relations of friendſhip and affection which ſubſiſt between the king my maſter and the United States, have been eſtabliſhed on a baſis which cannot but daily acquire a new degree of ſolidity. It is ſatisfactory to be mutually convinced that an alliance formed for obtaining a glorious peace, after efforts directed by the greateſt wiſdom, and ſuſtained with admirable conſtancy, muſt always be conformable to the common intereſts; and that it is a

... letter from the chevalier de la Luzerne, was lately read in the general aſſembly of this ſtate:

SIR, Paris,

I have received the act of the aſſembly of Pennſylvania, and the letter you have honoured me with, from which I learn that that ſtate has condeſcended to give my name to one of its newly erected counties. It is impoſſible for me to explain the grateful ſenſe I have of this diſtinguiſhed favour. Having the advantage of a long reſidence in Pennſylvania, I have been witneſs to all the acts of patriotiſm and valour performed in that ſtate, and which have ſo much contributed to the American independence.

I have had the further advantage of a perſonal knowledge of the different members of your government, and the opportunity of judging with what wiſdom, prudence and firmneſs, they have ſucceeded in eſtabliſhing one of the beſt governments in the world.

By virtue of a writ of venditioni exponas, to me directed, will be ſold on Thurſday the 24th day of April, at 11 o'clock, A. M. at the dwelling plantation of Thomas Rutland, of Edmund,
